VIRUS

Roman

Sci-fi novel by Nicolas Bastin

June

2016

Russia, XVIII century
Igor enters university to study sciences. During his first day at school, he meets Anna, a girl coming from a poor family, victim of maltreatment from her mother. Coming back home the same evening he tells his father he made a new "friend" but his father does not see this as a good sign. Igor leaves his home to take shelter at his school. At that moment he is far from imagining this escape would change his life...
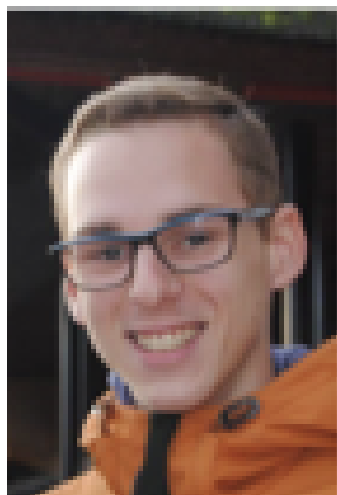

Bierges, XXI century
Grégoire hears an ad about the upcoming Halloween event at Six Flags Belgium. Mathias and Alice, Grégoire's twins, absolutely want tombe part of it. Going through the entertainment park, Grégoire has the odd feeling that he knows the maintenance guy taking care of the "Cirque of terror". Coïncidence? Or is this hiding something else?

The author

Educated in human sciences, Nicolas Bastin is publishing his first novel "Virus" at the age of 21. His passion for entertainment parks, who he shares with his partner, led him to write the story told in this novel.

Useful links

Link to download visuals: www.acrodacrolivres.com

Contact : Bou Bounoider acrodacrolivres@gmail.com